

Average Hybrid Cohort Sizes - August 26, 2020

In preparation for the hybrid model scheduled to begin on September 29th, average cohort sizes per school and by grade level have been calculated and are presented below. Please understand that these are averages only and that actual class sizes will vary, sometimes significantly. Significant variance may occur when an imbalance exists between Cohort A and Cohort B within an individual school, and in specific middle and high school courses due to the more complex nature of secondary schedules, leveled courses, electives, etc. The following notes will assist in properly interpreting the figures:

1. Please note that included within the average elementary counts are students who qualify to attend school four days a week. Some of these students spend more time in the general education classroom than others. Accordingly, we've broken down the numbers so you may see the averages for Morning Meeting, for specials classes (e.g., Art, Music), and for core classes.
2. We also have some middle and high school students who qualify to attend school four days a week, and these students are listed in the overall student counts for both middle schools and both high schools.
3. Generally speaking, we will be able to achieve six-foot social distancing when there are 11 or fewer students in a classroom. This is more of a rule of thumb than a hard and fast rule, as the square footage of individual classrooms varies throughout the District and within individual schools.
4. Reminder: Parents who signed up for the hybrid model will have an opportunity to change to at-home learning prior to the start of the hybrid model.
